Wexner Class and Dinner, 6:00 - 7:00pm

The “Seeing” and “Taking” of Sarah:
The Matriarch as Forbidden Fruit

What does Sarah the Matriarch have in common with the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden? Through close readings of the two stories, we will note the surprising parallels between the stories. We will then view this comparison in the larger context of gender relations in the Bible.

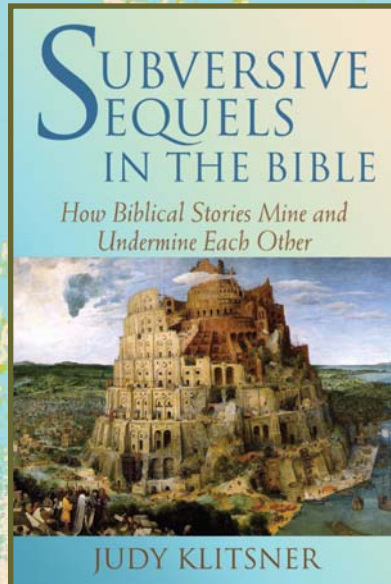

Community Lecture, 7:30 - 8:30pm

Slumbering Prophets and the Escape from Self:
How the Book of Jonah Mines and Undermines the Story of Noah

Two prophets, Noah and Jonah, seek to escape their responsibilities to help rescue humanity. As a result, both run the risk of losing themselves, one in alcoholic oblivion, the other by falling into a coma-like slumber. After a close reading and literary comparison of these two stories, we will address the question of humanity’s potential for genuine and enduring self-transformation.
